Bible verse of the month: "Blessed are the eyes that see what you see. For I tell you that many prophets and kings wanted to see what you see but did not see it, and to hear what you hear but did not hear it." Luke 10.23-24

Dear Friends

After all the excitement of the festivals of Ascension, Pentecost and Trinity, July might seem to be a quieter time in the Church's year. It is true that we're settling into the season of Trinity, which goes on through the summer and autumn but this month we'll be reading in Luke 10 & 11: lessons in discipleship from Jesus.

We all have different backgrounds & experiences, and have learned different things along the way so all of us are in a slightly different place in our relationship with God. And yet we all have much to learn. Jesus sent out seventy-two of his disciples to tell people about the kingdom of God. They went out to the towns and villages where he was about to go. And then they returned to him with joy, having seen the difference in people's lives as they ministered in his name. I get the impression that they were nervous before they went, perhaps feeling a little out of their depth. Later they were delighted that as they trusted Jesus' instruction they saw his power at work.

I recognise both the nervousness at something new, and the joy of seeing God at work. There will be opportunities this month that we have not had before and I hope we will be like those disciples who were ready to go and speak for Jesus and help people in his name.

I pray we will all be ready to go where God leads, and all full of joy when we see what he does amongst us.

All the best,
David.
